Noted British Statesman Dies Suddenly

AIR AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN HAD NOTABLE CAREER

Won Fame as Reformer And Shrewd Diplomat

Sir Austen Chamberlain, veteran British Parliamen-

tarian, and one of the Fathers of the Locarno Treaty, died suddenly to-day at his London residence. He had been confined to the house for the past few days, and passed away of heart failure at six o'clock.

The death of the 74-year-old Member of-Parliament, who first entered the House of Commons in 1892, and who almost immediately commanded a following there, comes as a great blow to the thousands he could count as friends and to the nation as a whole which had so long admired his sterling character, his high sense of duty and his complete unselfishness.—Reuter.

Sir Austen was born in Birming-ham in October, 1863, as the eldest Son of the famous politician, Joseph Chamberlain and his first wife. Educated at Rugby, Cembridge, Paris and Herlin, he entered the House of Commons in 1802 and in 1893 became Junior Unionist Whip, an office. he exchanged in 1895 for that of Civil Lord of the Admiralty.

After the "khaki" election of 1900
he was made Financial Secretary to the Treasury. When Balfour became Premler in 1901, he entered the Cabinet as Postmaster-General.

Birth Of Empire Preference

His father visited the South African colonies and on-his-returnfound that the tax on corn, which he and his son almed at using to inaugurate Empire preference, had been remitted. The sequel was Joseph Chamberlain's tariff reform campaign and his resignation from the Government. Austen, liowever, joined the Cabinet as Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1903. The tariff reform controversy split the party. which was crushingly defeated in 1906. Austen, in 1909, led the opposition to Lloyd George's "People's Budget," fighting it clause by clause till the proposed diversion of the sinking fund was dropped, the duty on ungotten minerals had to be jettlsoned and the land taxes whittled down to vanishing point. In the period following the Lords' rejection of the Budget he strengthened his position as leader of the tariff reform movement. In 1913 he became chairman of the Royal Commission on Indian Finance, and Currency. On his father's death in 1914 he became M.P. for West Birminghom.

During the War he joined the coalition Cabinet as Secretary for India, thus becoming responsible for the Mesopotamian campaign. Scandals came to light in connection with the medical service and an inquiry was ordered. During the debate on its report in July, 1917, he resigned, admitting the truth of the breakdown in the hospital arrangements, but explaining that he was ignorant of it till the damage had been done, In 1918 he joined Lloyd George's Coalltion as Minister without portfolio and after the elections in December 1918, became Chancellor of the Exchequer. He served on the Supreme Economic Council in Paris during the peace negotiations.`

Reduced Duties

In 1919 he brought in a Budget which reduced the existing duties on articles of general consumption from the British Dominions, thus introducing the principle of Imperial pre- expected to start to-morrow when ference. This debt reduction was criticised on the ground that it handicapped British trade, as it was only made, possible by oppressive taxation. Concessions had to be made next year, when the excess profils duty dropped. When Bonar Law resigned the Unionist leadership in 1921, Sir Austen was elected and Visobuntess Rolhermere.—Reuter. took office as Lord Privy Seal, but resigned after an adverse vote at the Carlton -Club - in -1922, In - Bonar. FRANCE AND BRITAIN UNLIKELY ACCEPT BERLIN THESIS

London, Mar. 16.

A hardening of the points of disagreement between Germany, on the one hand, and Great Britain and France, on the other, with respect to the formation of a new Western European pact, is a result of the latest German note on Locarno Treaty's re-establishment. Germany makes two concrete proposals, however, which have been in the hands of the British Government since the beginning of the week. They are:

That Belgian neutrality should be guaranteed by the four western powers, Britain, France, Germany and Italy; and

tity of the aggressor in the event of a conflict, should be engineered. With regard to Belgium, it is understood that although the word "neutrality" is not actually mentioned in the German note, a complicated diplomatic formula is used amounting to the same thing.

The German plan is that the four powers mentioned should give identical guarantees to Belgium that there should be no general staff arrangements unless they were made openly with all four powers; that France should not have the right of transit of troops through Belgium, under Article XVI; and that Belgium should not assist France, or any other country, under the League Covenant.

Emasculates Article XVI

Germany insists, in her note, that that the Franco-German non-aggres-sion pact should be valid under all circumstances. In other words, Germany does not admit the exceptions specifically allowed under the old Locarno Treaty, whereby action under Article XVI of the League Coveyant was legitimate. (This Article has to do with the ordering of sanctions against a nation deemed by the League Council to have committed an act of aggression in going

The proposal to make Britain and Italy co-arbiters in the matter of naming an aggressor was contained in the previous German note on the same subject, and already has been rejected by Britain.

No Mutual Assistance

The note thus rejects the whole principle of mutual assistance in Western Europe, particularly the British request that Great Britain shall have her own security guaranteed as well as being a guarantor of French and Belgian security.

Generally speaking, the note, although courteous and not specifically mentioning the Franco-Soviet defensive alliance, leaves the difficulties where they were before. That is to say, Germany still wants to immobilise the West and all Western European action under the League of Nations' Covenant, in order to have a free hand in the East of Europe. This. thesis is not likely to prove acceptable to France and Britain. Only one line of advance is now left open. That is, to take the problem of Belgian neutrality in isolation and try to settle it without either a Western or general European settlement .- Reuter.

Valencia, Mar. 16.

It is estimated that 3,000 Italian troops were killed during last week-end in a raid by twelve Government aircraft over the Guadalajara lines. The planes dropped many bombs and then, diving, turned their machine-guns on the ground forces. An American observer tells this story of the slaughter.

Meanwhile, five insurgent aeroplanes bombed Barcelona and the vicinity of the port early this morning. A sailing vessel in the harbour was sunk but its crew was ashore.

Several houses were destroyed and at least four were killed and 13 wounded.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

£400,000,000—The Full Inside Story of Why Britain Is Re-arming

When the Fleet Bluffed Mussolini-With Only

24 Hours' Ammunition

Mighty Display That Stopped a War

O-DAY the eyes of the world are on the nation that joined the arms race last and means to win if for the sake of peace.

British rearmament is now by far the most important factor in European affairs. In a few months it has changed the whole international outlook.

It all began with "the greatest concentration of naval might in the history of the world." That was the description of the British Fleet when on that October day in 1935 it sailed into the Mediterranean.

Italy had been warned of what Britain could do if British interests were menaced by Mussolini's attack on Abyssinia. And now Britain was showing her hand.

For days on end destroyers, cruisers, battleships, submarines, and other craft steamed through the Straits of Gibraltar to the Mediterranean Fleet.

Alexandria became the concentration point of a greater Armada than had ever gathered before there or anywhere else. As a demonstration of naval strength it was a glorious, inspiring spectacle.

But that mighty Navy was unprepared for war. It had not enough shells to last 24 hours if war had come. Many of the destroyers were obsolete—weaker in armament and. slower than those which Italy could have pitted against them.

Our newest cruisers were less powerful than Italy's. Our carriers and flying-boats less well-equipped.

CINEMA NOTES

Gene Raymond and Ann Sothern reach new heights in the sparkling. comedy-romance, "Smartest Girl in Town," which opens at the Queen's Theatre to-day. Delightful humour is combined with a fast-moving plot which gives the fullest play to the versatile talents of one of the screen's most popular romantic teams. The comedy, which is definitely keyed to ultra-modern entertainment tastes, is built around the marital aims of a lovely photographer's model, Miss Sothern, who decided that the pathway to connubial bliss must be paved with gold. Both Raymond and Miss Sothern have roles made to order, and their present efforts promise to eclipse their recent success in "Walking on Air." Besides those of the two principals there are -brilliant portrayals by four of the screen's funmakers, Helen Broderick, Eric Blore, Erik Rhodes and Harry Jans and a cast of favourites including Miss Hattle McDaniels, Frank Jenks, Fred Santley and Arthur Loft. Sothern displays an array of fashionable feminine garb which features an ensemble suitable for every hour on the clock. Evening gowns, sport attire, street dresses, cocktail, gowns, luncheon frocks, dinner costumesthe lovely Ann is swathed in these outfits designed by Bernard Newman. And Gene Raymond, who has reveal--singing talents in previous pictures, blossoms forth as a composer as well as a vocalist singing his own "Will You?" to Miss Sothern during the course of his hectic love-making. "China Clipper"

Pat O'Brien, of all people, suffered an acute attack . of that peculiar thespian disease known as "stage fright" recently. It was the first time in his long acting career that Pat has admitted being nervous while facing either the footlights or the camera. It was during the making of a scene in "China Clipper," the new First National thriller now showing at the King's Theatre. Pat had to make a short speech to a room full will like the rival by contrast, of brilliantly dressed extra players He gave a swell imitation of the schoolboy called upon to recite before that he lay down his life for a friend! latest script.

And that's the kind of love that comes to the heart of an ignorant little gangster in "I'd Give My Life," Paramount's new thriller, now at the Star Theatre, with Sir Guy Standing, Tom Brown, Frances Drake and Janet Beecher heading a large cast of screen invourites. "I'd Give My Life" is adapted from "The Noose." one of the most successful, most vital legitimate plays of recent years, and its story is as poignant and thrilling as if it had been written from today's headlines of your favourite newspaper! "I'd Give My Life" tells the story of an honest Governor, trying to clean his State of racketeers, with the racket chief holding 'the strongest weapon in the game—the threat of scandal against the Governor's beloved wife! Tom Brown, as Dock. the young gang member, is the innocent pawn in the game, and when he discovers that he is about to be used to break a tortured woman's heart, he rebells-preferring to go to the gallows with scaled lips, rather than add to her sorrows. Neutrality Must Be Well Armed

Washington, Mar. 16. Neutrality is impossible unless backed up by adequate force, declared Mr. Izac, former naval lieutenant now member for San Diego, in a debate on the Neutrality Bill in the House of Representatives. He said they could not build a Navy big enough to cover the seven seas, but if in proclaiming permanent neutrality, they also announced that the United States Navy would be used only in home waters, they could keep the United States out of war.

Mrs. Edith Rogers condemned the McReynolds Neutrality Bill, under which, she said, they would be giving up their trade and not keeping the United States out of war.

Mr. W. Sirovich, New York, asked whether, if the McReynolds Bill were enneted, they President might place an embargo on Italy and Germany in view of their part in the Spanish civil

Mr. McReynolds replied: Not unless the President found that they were actually in a state of war. Mr. John Bernard declared that both the McReynolds and the Pitt-man Neutrality Bills invited aggression by Fascist Powers, since weak countries could not buy from the United States.—Reuter.

Such an investigation will be of firstclass value to the I.L.O. at the present time. Next year one of the big subjects to be dealt with at the International Labour Conference will be that of "the regulation of contracts of indigenous workers." International action is necessary, because the history of colonial development has been marred by many deliberate attempts to exploit native workers. Often conditions amounting almost to slavery have been forced upon them by ruthless methods of recruiting. It has proved ridiculously easy for unscrupulous white employers to get the illiterate natives to accept misleading contracts, which might just as well have been written in Greek for all that the victims knew about the unending servitude to which they were binding grouchy?" Then A.V. Gosano And £1,405 FOR Remedios Have An 10/- ON Inspired Period

LIAVING won the first set, led 5-3 in the second, secured four match points and lost each one, F. H. Kwok and S. W. Liang yesterday proceeded to drop the second set and to concede six games in a row to lose their first round match in the men's been awarded to the Combridge open doubles tennis championship of the Colony against A. V. Gosano and A. V. Remedios.

The Portuguese couple's recovery was as brilliant as it was unexpected. They appeared to be a thoroughly beaten pair in the second stanza, Liang's lofty lobs, with Kwok's contrasting fast drives which skimmed the net, scarching out innumerable. weaknesses both overhead and on the volley.

It was after they had saved match | Lock in easy stages and then coming points in the ninth and tenth games i that Gosano and Remedios gained up-stream they rowed a practice confidence and went in to volley with start of ten strokes in 17 seconds, unerring accuracy. Prior to this and later rowed from Little Bridge Gosano was extraordinarily weak to the Ditch in 1 min. 25sec., Perverhead and put more smashes out fit, at stroke, getting away at 32 to of the court than in, while Remedies the minute. attempted to volley defensively and too often netted.

Liang's lobbing in the first two sets was superb. He rarely shortened their length to less than three-quarter court and they had the opposition fairly worried. Kwok also backed up with some stinging drives which brought about volleying mistakes on the other side of the net and certainly for the first 20 games the" Chinese pair were superlor.

Gosano and Remedios set out from the start to dominate the forecourt ond they went in for volleys on every conceivable occasion. But their volleying, though good at times, was inconsistent and it seemed that their tactics must bring about their defeat.

INSPIRED PERIOD

Then came that inspired period just as everything seemed to be over. Hemedios scored with some gargeous volleys which had a vicious under-cut while Gosano steadied himself and improved overhead. The outcome of it all was that after losing the first game in the third set, the Portuguese won the next nine points in succession for a 2-1 lead, and then, aided once or twice by net-cord shots, broke through Kwok's service for a 4-1 lead. Their strokes improved with every rally and in the end they were scoring points at will. Llang's lobs descried him and Kwok's drives, terrors, the Portuguese volleying with sublime confidence and no little skill.

of the four players and it was largely due to him that the match resulted as it did. His overhead strokes were defensive, but at least reliable while his volleying was extremely, good, Gosano was patchy throughout but improved enormously after the second set had been saved. Kwok and Llang played thoughtful tennis, but they might have attacked a little more when their supremacy was being threatened. F. V. Harrison played very steady tennis to overcome Ma Nai-kwong in the third set. Harrison displayed more variety of strokes than the loser, but the two were well matched, and when Ma won the second set at 6-1, indications were that he would snatch the match. But Harrison steadied himself and by extending the rallies until he could obtain a position at the net for a winning volley, ran out a good winner in the third set at 6-3.

14 PLAYERS TO TOUR ENGLAND Wellington, Feb. 23.

New Zealand's team of fourteen cricketers to tour England this summer-was completed to-day. The first eight of those mentioned belowwere chosen on February-12.

The fourteen players are:

M. L. Page (Canterbury), (capt.) W. A. Hadlee (Canterbury), J. L. Kerr (Canterbury), A. W. Roberts (Canterbury), D. A. R. Maloney (Wellington), W. Carson (Auckland), H. G. Vivlan (Auckland), M. W. Wallace (Auckland), E. W. Tindill (Wellington), J. Cowie (Auckland), B. Griffiths (Auckland), G. L. Weir (Auckland), M. P. Donnelly (Wellington), and J. A. Dunning (Otago).

Only four of the above were in the Cardiff, the Wah team winning by cricket side that toured Australia in 13 points to eft.—Reuter. 1931. They are Vivian, Page, Weir and Kerr, but one of the latest choices, E. W. Tindlit; toured Great Britain as a member of the last New Zealand Rugby team.

Brief sketches of the new players are given below.

E. W. Tindill.-A versatile player. Good left-handed opening batsman; £110,000 if he (Andrews) lost the one of the best wicket-keepers in New Zealand; and excellent in any other part of the field. Was a member of the last All Blacks' team in-England. Age 24.

J. Cowie.-One of the best fastmedium bowlers in the Dominion. Swings the new_ball dangerously, keeps a good length, and occasionally bowls a ball of real pace. Six feet in height and heavily built; he has right brought proceedings make up for fast bowler. Age 25.

B. Griffiths.—Slow spin bowler who gets exceptional nip off the pitch. He alleges that Mr. Andrews has Still erratic, but would be really great evaded creditors by giving his wife a judgment for £170,000 and permiting her to obtain his assets from the control of New York banks.

Still erratic, but would be really great bowler with more consistent length and spin. Age 26.

G. L. Weir.—An outstanding all-rounder for some years. A difficult batsman to dislodge; useful slowmedium right-hand bowler. Scored more than 1,000 runs in England in 1931 and took 27 wickets. Age 29. M. P. Donnelly.—One of the finest young left-handed batsmen produced by the Dominion. Is only 18. Has broken many school records, and as

Lee Wal-tong has hi first testing in the current tennischampionship of the Colony thi afternoon when, in a first-roundmatch he engages J.F. Leys, thetall American, exponent, whose tennis has created favourable impression in Hongkong.

Lee will run up againt one of the fastest and most accurae services to be found in the Colony and he may find it a bit of a problem to master it. Leys too has good sound strokes and is capable of givin Lee some fair opposition.

I expect to find Le's stendiness and his wider repertire of strokes pull him through to straight sets victory, but the enqunter should offer plenty of enterinment.

More than ordingy interest is likely to be evinced a S. A. Rum-Jahn's match with Hink Grose, as many feel that if Thi Wai-pui has to withdraw, his natral successor as champion is Silar Rumjahn. which he accomplises it:

DISAPPOINTING SEMI-FINAL

Portuguese Pair Win At Will

Very disappointing from the spectators point of view was last evening's semi-final match in the mixed doubles badminton championship of the Colony played at King's College between M. A. Oliveira-Miss M. Silva and S. A. Gray-Miss A. Mackenzie.

Oliveira and Miss Silva caught their opponents on the hop and proceeded to dust the floor with them to

When he did essay something it was to put the "bird" up for Miss Silva and her partner to smash. Miss Silva played a perfect game and by her clever interceptions gave Miss Mackenzie no chance. Miss Silva brought the "bird" down very sharply and she did not make a single mistake over the two games.

Oliveira was tremendously ellicient placing his clearances with great skill. The Recrelo couple won without being in the slightest blt extended, but it must be said they caught the opposition on a day when nothing would go right for them.

"A 'single' whisky has double meaning," said Johnnie Walker. "When we in Scotland talk about 'single' whiskies we mean the many separate whiskies which are blended together to make Johnnie Walker. No two

"single" whiskies are exactly alike; it is the art of the blender to retain the finest characteristics of each so that perfect harmony is achieved. In fact, harmonious blending, · like harmonious marriage, is largely a matter of give and take. And the moral is, when giving or taking whisky, ask for Johnnie Walker by name."

NEW FILM SERIAL "TELEGRAPH'S"

"Lloyd's of London" is a film which is shortly to be presented at the Queen's Theatre. To-day appears another instalment of the full story of the episodes in the life of the great corporation on which the film is based. It is a narrative of much interest in itself and is appropriately made public at a time when the presentation of the film in Hongkong is soon to be made.

troubled years under Napelcon to spy out information for Lloyds. . Fearing discovery, he plans to fice when he witnesses the arrest of a bemitiful English woman. He aids her to escape the military police, and the two set out for England in a small sloop. Neither Jonathan nor the woman knows the identity of the other.

Chapter Ten

The little sloop was more than half way across the English charred and the white chalk cliffs of Dover were plainty visible when the girl awakened. She cat op and gazed aft at Jonathan, blue with gazed aft at Jonathan, blue with coid, then without saying a word, she began delving into a large sea chest she found amidships. She conducted a large sea conducted a large sea chest she found amidships. She chest she found amidships. She produced a loaf of bread, a small cheese, a bottle of red wine and a bottle of brandy; she filled a glass with the brandy, came aft and handed it to Jonathan. She then roturned to the chest and ate breakfast, after wich se came afth again. "Show me how to steer, Jona-than," she suggested softly, "I'm sure I can manage while you parfew hours sleep. Poor man, you have had a hard night."

He instructed her how to steer by the compage in the binnacle; then he, too, ate. "Call me if the weather changes, Elizabeth, please, he warned her.

He had about two hours of selecp and relieved her at the tiller, in response to her call. A tall, seventy. four gun British man-o-waraman, with every sail set, was bearing down upon them, and Elizabeth had become alarmed as to the danger of or collision. Jonathan luffed the sloop up into the wind and she lost headway and lay with her sails shivering as the man-o'-warsman chine ramping by not thirty yards off the sloop's bow. She was glorious. Walking backward and forward on her poop was a slight man in the uniform of an officer; he came to the rail and looked down at the sloop; he waved a greeting

"There;" said Elizabeth, faintly excited, "is the youngest admiral in our navy. I have heard his superfors any that he is destined to a glorious career. His name is Horatio Nelson."

Jonathan stared after the ship, but her tall stern-castle had blotted out the slight figure on the poop. we were thirteen years old," he told Elizabeth, "and I have never seen him-since.--We-correspond-fre- Blake? quently, however, Horatio is a tirelees letter-writer and much interested in some work that I am doing, many. Later I went abourd his solp nt Plymouth, but the vessel had just been do-commissioned and Horatic had been retired temporarily and was visiting his people at Burnham-Thorpe." And he went on to relate to her the details of the boylsh pact that had existed between him and Horatic Nelson. "He often refers to it jestingly in his letters; he has demanded that I follow him into the navy. Of course I have refused, so, under the terms of curpact Horatic has the privilege, when we meet again, of striking me on the jaw."

"How gladly you would present your jaw for the accolade if that would speed your meeting. Jonathan," she suggested: He thrilled a note up to Elizabeth's room at her understanding, and continued to watch Horatio's ship until it disappeared in the mist down channel.

"It shall be delighted to negative following wife," he said huskily, for he was profoundly moved.

"That," she whispered, "can he whispered, "ascertain from him news be. And I am so sorry, too. Goodhye, my friend."

But the said huskily, for he was profounds into the latter's hand. "When the driver of that special conveyance returns," newsr be. And I am so sorry, too. Goodhye, my friend."

Enemy Raiders "Bomb" Colony

FIRST OF VOLUNTEER MOBILISED. FORCE

Hongkong is "at war" to-day. . The first "enemy" bombs have been dropped on the Colony. The Volunteer units are being mobilised, the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force for patrol duty at sea and the land Volunteers for guard duty at the beaches.

The following Press Communique was issued by General Staff Headquarters at 2 p.m.:

"Redland is at war with Blueland. At 12.30 hours today a formation of Blue aircraft dropped bombs' on Stonecutters Island without, however, causing more serious damage than wrecking the Officers' Mess and ruining the recreation rooms. Red anti-aircraft guns replied. Previous to that a small party of Blue seamen were reported to have landed in Hebe Haven from a junk; they were observed to re-embark. Dawn air reconnaissance this morning reported the party of troops marching along the northern shores of Mirs Bay to have bivouacked some ten miles east of Shataukok. Civilians say that these are Blue troops, but their identity cannot be verified.

"Last night passed without incident. Officer Commanding, Kumaon Rifles, in the absence of Volunteer elements; pushed out a detachment to the shores of Starling inlet.

"This afternoon some sixty Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps personnel report for duty at Mainland Headquarters. Among these will be the motorized troops and Capmin Poits, the Armoured Car Section and certain machine gun sub-units, and some greatly needed motor despatch rider personnel belonging to the Volunteer Signals sub-unit. Of even greater significance to Redland's defence will be personnel of the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force augment Rediand's Naval patrol organization.

NO DISTURBANCES

"The organized life of the Colony continues without undue disturbances The activities of the Food Controller reported yesterday do not interfere with the ability to purchase in the shops and reinil establishments; con- land. squently there are no serious attempts

Personnel of St. Ambulance Brigade are being drafted to military centres in the field as well as in the military hospitals. Thanks to the willingness of the medical and other students at the University, the requirements of the Civil Medical organization are being satisfactorily met.

"Redland's degree of readiness is being developed. In spite of the first hostile bombs the Red population is calm and firm."

CERMANY REJECTS EUROPEAN MUTUAL ASSISTANCE

Seeks to Immobilise Western Powers and Free Hand in East

AND BRITAIN UNLIKELY FRANCE ACCEPT BERLIN THESIS.

London, Mar. 16. A hardening of the points of disagreement between Germany, on the one hand, and Great Britain and France, on the other, with respect to the formation of a new Western European pact, is a result of the latest German note on Locarno Treaty's re-establishment. Germany makes two concrete proposals, however, which have been in the hands of the British Government since the beginning of the week. They are:

That Belgian neutrality should be guaranteed by the four western powers, Britain, France, Germany and Italy; and

in the German note, a complicated diplomatic formula is: used amounting to the same thing.

The German plan is that the four powers mentioned should give identical guarantees to Belgium that there should be no general staff arrangements unless they were made openly with all four powers; that France should not have the right of transit of troops through Belgium, under Article XVI; and that Belgium should not assist France, or any other country, under the League Covenant.

Emasculates Article XVI

Germany insists, in her note, that that the Franco-German non-aggression pact-should be valid under all circumstances. In other words, Germany does not admit the exceptions specifically allowed under the old Locarno Treaty, whereby action under Article XVI of the Lengue Coveyant was legitimate. (This Article has to do with the ordering of sanctions against a nation deemed by the League Council to have committed an act of aggression in going

The proposal to make Britain and Italy co-arbiters in the matter of naming an aggressor was contained in the previous German note on the same subject, and aiready has been rejected by Britain.

No Mutual Assistance

The note thus rejects the whole principle of mutual assistance in Western Europe, particularly the British request that Great Britain shall have her own security guaranteed as well as being a guarantor of French and Belgian

Generally speaking, the note, although courteous and not specifically mentioning the Franco-Soviet defensive alliance, leaves the difficulties where they were before. That is to say, Germany still wants 'to' immobilise the West and all Western European action under the League of Nations' Covenant, in order to have a free hand in the East of Europe. This thesis is not likely to prove acceptable to France and Britain.

Only one line of advance is now left open. That is, to take the probiem of Belgian neutrality in isolation and try to settle it without either a Western or general European settlement.—Reuter. .

HONGKONG SHIP IN COLLISION SUISANG - FORCED

TO PUT BACK

NOT BADLY DAMAGED

The Indo-China Steam Navigation Company's s. s. Suisang and the river steamer Tai Lee, on the Kongmoon run, were in collision last night just after the former vessel had left Stonecutters, bound for Singapore and Calcutta.

The collision occurred shortly after 7 p.m., the Suisang being hit amidships on the port side. A certain amount of damage was suffered by both vessels, and the Sulsang was put back to Kowloon Docks for repairs. It is hoped, however, that the Jardine boat will be able to resume her voyage to-morrow afternoon. The Suisang, of 3,229 tons, is commanded by Captain T. Hughes. She was built at Kowloon Docks in 1923. HOPSANG STILL AGROUND

Another Indo-China vessel, the Hopsang, which went ashore off Cape Garambi, Formosa, a week ago, is still on the rocks and is in a serious condition, being badly holed in the bottom. The tug, Henry Keswick, which was despatched to the scene, is coming back to-night or to-morrow morning with the crew of the wrecked vessel, but the captain is remaining on the ship. There are doubts whether it will be possible to salvage the Hopsang, but she has not yet been declared a total loss.

SIR AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN HAD NOTABLE CAREER

Won Fame as Reformer And Shrewd Diplomat

London, March 16. Sir Austen Chamberlain, veteran British Parliamentarian, and one of the Fathers of the Locarno Treaty, died suddenly to-day at his London residence. He had been confined to the house for the past few days, and passed away of heart failure at six o'clock.

The death of the 74-year-old Member of Parliament, who first entered the House of Commons in 1892, and who almost immediately commanded a following there, comes as a great blow to the thousands he could count as friends and to the nation as a whole which had so long admired. his sterling character, his high sense of duty and his complete unselfishness.—Reuter.

Sir Austen was born in Birmingsum in October, 1863, as the class son of the famous politician, Joseph Chamberlain and his first wife. Educated at Rugby, Cambridge, Paris and Berlin, he entered the House of Commons in 1892 and in 1893 became Junior Unionist Whip, an office he exchanged in 1895 for that of

His father visited the South African-colonies-and-on-his-return found that the tax on corn, which he and his son aimed at 'using to inaugurate. Empire preference, had been remitted. The sequel was Joseph Chamberlain's tariff reform campaign and his resignation from the Government. Austen, however, foined the Cabinet as Chancellor of the Exchequer-in 1903. The tariff reform controversy split the party, which was crushingly defeated in 1906. Austen, in 1909, led the opposition to Lloyd George's "People's Budget," fighting it clause by clause till the proposed diversion of the sinking fund was dropped, the duty on ungotten minerals had to be jettisoned and the land taxes whittled down to vanishing point. In the period following the Lords' rejection of the Budget he strengthened his position as leader of the tariff reform movement. In 1913 he became chairtoan of the Royal Commission on Indian Finance and Currency. On his father's death in 1914 he became M.P. for West Birmingham. During the War he joined the coalition Cabinet as Secretary for India, thus becoming responsible for the Mesopotamian campaign. Scandals came to light in connection with (Continued on Page 12.)

£400,000,000—The Full Inside Story of Why Britain Is Re-arming

When the Fleet Bluffed Mussolini-With Only 24 Hours' Ammunition

Mighty Display That Stopped a War

O-DAY the eyes of the world are on the nation that joined the arms race last and means to win if for the sake of peace.

British rearmament is now by far the most important factor in European affairs. In a few months it has changed the whole international outlook.

It all began with "the greatest concentration of naval might in the history of the world." That was the description of the British Fleet when on that October day in 1935 it sailed into the Mediterranean.

Italy had been warned of what Britain could do if British interests were menaced by Mussolini's attack on Abyssinia. And now Britain was showing her hand.

For days on end destroyers, cruisers, battleships, submarines, and other craft steamed through the Straits of Gibraltar to the Mediterranean Fleet.

Alexandria became the concentration point of a greater Armada than had ever gathered before there or anywhere else. As a demonstration of naval strength it was a glorious, inspiring spectacle.

But that mighty Navy was unprepared for war. It had not enough shells to last 24 hours if war had come. Many of the destroyers were obsolete-weaker in armament and slower than those which Italy could have pitted against them.

Our newest cruisers were less powerful than Italy's. Our

At 21 my soul was not my own.

People either thought I had to be pampered, flattered, or patronised.

How I louthed the patronising ways of elderly people who I knew hadn't half the brains or stuffing I had.

To-day at 50 I am more balanced. There are no fevers burning in my mind or in my heart. I see life as it is, not as others would have me believe it is, not as vivid and warm imagination once painted it for me. So that I take things calmly, enjoy my pleasures liberally, but sensibly. One's Own Master

MUSSOLINI ON GRAND TOUR

London, Mar. 16. "From the Libyan Desert, By Courier," reads a despatch flashed from the Libyan coast to London today. It tells of Signor Benlto Mussolini's triumphal progress through the Italian colony.

A mighty 120-feet high arch in the middle of the desert at Arae Philainorum, marking the frontier between Cyrenalca and Tripolitania, was inaugurated by night by the Dictator Rome, after a 250 mile drive at the head of a procession of 100 cars.

Signor Mussolini, followed by Marshal Batbo, bearded ex-flier, turned Governor, were the first to walk and drive underneath the arch, with the bronze figure of a man high overhead, illuminated by flames, at its summit. The figure is visible for miles around and the glow of the circling braziers looks far into the

A Latin inscription is engrayed in the stone. 4t reads: "Gracious son, may thou gaze on nothing greater than the city of Rome," Searchlights crossed rays in the sky as II Duce and 400 others spent the night in a city of tents which sprang up magically in the desert. A group of sentries, armed with carbines, guarded Mussolini. A cheetah was chained outside his marquee in the centre of the camp.-Reuter,

Neutrality Must Be Well Armed

Washington, Mar. 16. Neutrality is impossible unless backed up by adequate force, declared Mr. Izac, former naval lieutenant, now member for San Diego, in a debate on the Neutrality Bill in the House of Representatives. He said they could not build a wavy big enough to cover the seven sens, but if, in proclaiming permanent neutrality, they also announced that the United States Navy would be used only in home waters, they could keep the United States out of war.

Mrs. Edith Rogers condemned the McReynolds Neutrality Bill, under which she said the war.

NATIVE LABOUR INQUIRY

There has never been a time when so many countries and continents have been eager to collaborate in the work of the International Labour Organisation of the League of Nations. Native labour problems are now arousing deep interest at Geneva, and the South African j Government has gone out of its way to help the I.L.O. in its en- A little question like, "Have you-African representative to the League of Nations, it has invited the Governing Body at Geneva to send a delegation to study native labour conditions in the Union at first hand. Such an investigation will be of firstclass value to the I.L.O. at the present time. Next year one of the big subjects to be dealt with at the International Labour Conference will be that of "the regulation of contracts of indigenous workers." International action is necessary, because the history of colonial development has been marred by many deliberate attempts to exploit native workers. Often conditions amounting almost to clash. .. slavery have been forced upon them by ruthless methods of recruiting. QUARRY BAY SCHOOL

CHILDREN ENJOY SPORTS

A great deal of fun and amusement was provided at the annual sports of the Quarry Bay School, held on the lawn of the Taikoo Recreation Club, this morning.

The interest of the many parents present was centred in the keen rivalry shown by the little competitors in their efforts to secure honours. Practically the whole school took part in the sports, and the events were run off in five sections, efficiently managed by Miss K. M. Anderson, Headmistress of the School.

At the conclusion of the sports, the happy children crowded around a table placed in the centre of the lawn, where Mrs. K. E. Greig, wife of the Manager of the Talkoo Dockyard, distributed the prizes. She was given a lovely bouquet of flowers.

Mr. W. Kay, the Acting Director of Education, who was also present, in a short speech to the gathering thanked Mrs. Greig for consenting to give away the awards, and also the Club for the loan of the grounds for the sports to be held. He then added to the joy of the youngsters by announcing that he was granting them, a holiday to-morrow.

The results of the various sections were as follows:--

(By "Veritas")

HAVING won the first set, led 5-3 in the second, secured four match points and lost each one, F. H. Kwok and S. W. Liang yesterday proceeded to drop the second set and to concede six games in a row to lose their first round match in the men's open doubles tennis championship of the Colony against A. V. Gosano and A. V. Remedios.

The Portuguese couple's recovery was as brilliant as it was unexpected. They appeared to be a thoroughly beaten pair in the second stanza, Liang's lofty lobs, with 'Kwok's contrasting fast drives which skimmed the net, searching out innumerable weaknesses both overhead and Liang's lobbing in the first two sets was superb. He rarely shortened their length to less than three-quarter court and they had the opposition fairly worried. Kwok also backed up with ...some..: stinging .. drives - which brought about volleying mistakes on the other side of the net and certainly for the first 20 games the Chinese pair were superior.

Gosano and Remedios set out from the start to dominate the forecourt and they went in for volleys on every conceivable occasion. But their volleying, though good at times, was inconsistent and it seemed that their tactics must bring about their defeat.

INSPIRED PERIOD

Then came that inspired period just as everything seemed to be over. Remedias scored with some gorgeous volleys which had a vicious under-cut while Gosano sleadied himself and improved overhead. The outcome of game in the third set, the Portuguese won the next nine points in succession for a 2-1 lead, and then, aided once or twice by net-cord shots, broke through Kwok's service for a lead. Their strokes improved with every rally and in the end they were though-still useful, held no durther in the history of the Grand National. Kwok and Liang played thoughtful tennis, but they might have attacked a little more when their supremacy was being threatened. F. V. Harrison played very steady tennis to overcome Ma Nai-kwong in the match. But Harrison steadied himself and by extending the rallies until he could obtain a position at the not for a winning volley, ran out a good winner in the third set at 6+3:

14 PLAYERS TO TOUR ENGLAND

Wellington, Feb. 23. New Zealand's team of fourteen cricketers to tour England this summer was completed to-day. The first eight of those mentioned below were chosen on February 12.

The fourteen players are:

M. L. Page (Canterbury), (capt.), W. A. Hadlee (Canterbury), J. L. Kerr (Canterbury), A. W. Roberts (Canterbury), D. A. R. Maloney (Wellington), W. Carson (Auckland), H. G. Vivian (Auckland), M. W. Wallaco (Auckland), E. W. Tindlil (Wellington), J. Cowie (Auckland), B. Griffiths. (Auckland), G. L. Weir (Auckland). M. P. Donnelly (Wellington), and J. A. Dunning (Oingo).

Only four of the above were in the cricket side that toured Austrolla in 13 points to eight.—Reuter. 1931. They are Vivian, Page, Weir and Kerr, but one of the latest choices, E. W. Tindill, toured Great Britain as a member of the last New Zealand Rugby team.

Brief sketches of the new players are given below.

E. W. Tindlil.—A versatile player. Good left-handed opening batsman; one of the best wicket-keepers in. New Zealand, and excellent in any other part of the field. Was a member of the last All Blacks' team in England. Age 24.

J. Cowie.—One of the best fastmedium bowlers in the Dominion. Swings the new ball dangerously, keeps a good length, and occasionally bowls a ball of real pace. Six feet in height and/heavily built; he has right make up for fast bowler. Age 25.

B. Griffiths.—Slow spin bowler who gets exceptional nip off the pitch. evaded creditors by giving his wife a bowler with more consistent length Still erratic, but would be really great and spin. Age 25.

G. L. Weir.—An outstanding fallrounder for some years. A difficult batsman to dislodge; useful slowmedium right-hand bowler. Scored more than 1,000 runs in England in 1931 and took 27 wickets. Age 29. M. P. Donnelly.—One of the finest young left-handed batsmen produced by the Dominion. Is only 18. Has broken many school records, and as a bowler (left-arm slow) recently took all ten wickets in an innings in club match. A brilliant field. Mr. W. McCracken, former E. R. T. Leys v. Lee Match

(By "Verlins")

Lee Wal-tong has his first testing in the current tennis championship of the Colony this afternoon when, in a first-round match he engages J.F. Leys, the tall American exponent, whose tennis has created favourable impression / in Hongkong.

Lee will run up against one of the fastest and most accurate services to be found in the Colony, and he may find it a bit of a problem to master it. Leys too has good ground strokes and is capable of giving Lee some fair opposition.

I expect to find Lee's steadiness and his wider repertoire, of strokes pull him through to a straight sets victory, but the encounter should offer plenty of entertainment.

More than ordinary interest is likely to be evinced in S. A. Rumjahn's match with Frank Grose, as many feel that if Tsui Wal-pui has to withdraw, his natural successor as champlon' is Sirdar Rumjahn. Therefore his many friends will be watching Rumjahn closely endeavouring to satisfy themselves concerning his chances. He will, of course, win. More important is the manner in which he accomplishes it.

DISAPPOINTING SEMI-FINAL

Portuguese Pair Win At Will

Very disappointing from the spectators point of view was last evening's semi-final match in the mixed doubles badminton championship of the Colony played at King's College between M. A. Oliveira-Miss M. Silva and S. A. Gray-Miss A. Mackenzie,

Oliveira and Miss Silva caught their opponents on the hop and proceeded to dust the floor with them to the tune of 15-1, 15-2.

The match was over before, anybody had much chance of realising It had started. The losers could do nothing right. Gray, apparently troubled by the speed of the shuttle constantly cleared the baseline in the first game in fruitless attempts to keep Oliveira at the rear of the court, and throughout the match he often appeared to be in two minds as to the shot he should play. When he did essay something it was to put the "bird" up for Miss Silva and her partner to smash.

Miss Silva played a perfect game and by her clever interceptions gave Miss Mackenzle no chance. Miss Silva brought the "bird" down very sharply and she did not make a single mistake over the two games.

Oliveira was tremendously efficient, placing his clearances with great skill. The Recrelo couple won without being in the slightest bit extended, but it must be said they caught the opposition on a day when nothing would go right for them:

To-night, also at King's College, the quarter-finals in the men's doubles championship will be contested. Some exceedingly interesting matches are assured. Frank Kwok and S. W. Linng, the dependable C.R.C. pair oppose T. C. Lee and P. K. Hui, of the University. Lee and Hui are expected to win, but the C.R.C. representatives will offer stout opposition. I do not think Dick and Eddle Sousa will prove good enough to avoid defeat at the hands of K. S. Liew and K. L. Yong, the clever Varsity-combination, though the encounter, may go to three games.

Oliveira and J. J. Remedies should overcome T. J. Ong and Fred Koh, of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., probably in straight games.

team which has reached the semi-final of the famous competition. Here are some of the Millwall players in training. Wallbanks, Mangnail, Smith and Burditt. Millwall in the last two rounds have conquered such illustrious teams as Derby County and Manchester City.

Play Cricket Again

R. S. Dulcepsinhii, England and Sussex cricketer, will probably never play again owing to ill-health. "I am afraid it is true," said his brother, who succeeded their uncle, the famous "Ranji," as Maharajah of Nawanagar. "I think his cricket cureer is ended."

This debt reduction was criticised on the ground that it pandicapped British trade, as it was only made possible by oppressive taxation. Concessions had to be made next year, when the excess profits duty dropped. When Bonar Law resigned the Unionist leadership in 1921, Sir Austen was elected and took office as Lord Privy Seal, but resigned after an adverse vote at the Carlton Club in 1022. In Bonat Law's Cabinet of 1922, he had no place, but in Baldwin's Government of 1924, he took over the Foreign Office on the death of Lord Curzon.

Honoured By Nation

The year 1925 was largely occupied by the discussion of the Western security pact, which was followed in October by the conclusion of the Treaties of Locarno. After the signa-ture of these in London in December, Sir Austen was made a Knight of the Garter and is said to have refused a peerage on the ground that his father had always declined a title and he could wish for no better name than that of Chamberlain. At the same time Lady Chamberlain was made a Dame of the British Empire. They had given up Highbury, the family scat, for use as a war-hospital and later presented it to Birmingham as a permanent hospital for limbless men and orthopaedle cases.

At the Guildhall banquet in connection with the signing of the Locarno Pacts Sir Austen drank from the historic loving-cup with the Gercup with the German Ambassador, May our nations do to-morrow what he and I have done to-night". In recognition of his work at Locarno he received the honorary freedom of the City of London and of Birmingham. A Nobel Peace Prize was bestowed on him in 1926. In the previous month the 50 years' connection of Sir Austen and his father with West Birmingham had been celebrated.

Draws Criticism

Early in 1926 in connection with the forthcoming entry of Germany into the League of Nations and the campaign to extend it so as to include Poland, he spoke in favour of the Council being further enlargeda pronouncement which elicited con- office in favour of "some younger siderable criticism even from his own man". Great Britain, he added, had already undertaken sufficient commitments in the Locarno Pact. In the crisis with Egypt in May, 1928, Sir Austen took a strong line, and when he accepted the Kellogg Peace Pact, it was with a reservation regarding Egypt and territories in a similar relation to England. His naval compromise with France in the summer of 1928 aroused suspicion and resentment in the United States and was reported to have been quietly

Possession Of Revolver

BOATMAN SENT TO PRISON

A plea for leniency was entered by Mr. Hin-shing Lo on behalf of Chan Yan, a boatman, who appeared before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholi MacGregor, at the Criminal Sessions this' morning and admitted a charge of unlawful possession of a revolver at Cheung Chau.

Mr. Lo, who was instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall, said his client was a boatman and had a friend who owned a fishing junk, and also the revolver. It was this man who had handed the prisoner the revolver, with the request that it be taken for repairs, Whilst walking in the streets he was arrested by the police.

Mr. Lo produced a discharge book from the C. P. R. testifying that the defendant had been formerly employed on the Empress of Japan as a lifeboat man. There were also several friends in Court who would give him a good character and who were prepared to sign a bond on his behalf, if necessary.

His Lordship pointed out that the man, when arrested, had a piece of flannel which had apparently been used to clean the revolver, which had been fired some time during the three days prior to the prisoner's arrest.

Mr. Lo replied that they did not know who had fired the revolver. Sentence of nine months' hard labour was passed,

What is the good of a "Single" Whisky?

"A 'single' whisky has double meaning," said Johnnie Walker. "When we in Scotland talk about 'single' whiskies we mean the many separate whiskies which are blended together to make Johnnie Walker. No two

'single' whiskies are exactly alike; it is the art of the blender to retain the finest characteristics of each so that perfect harmony is achieved. In fact, harmonious blending, like harmonious marriage, is largely a matter of give and take. And the moral is, when giving or taking whisky, ask for Johnnie Walker by name."

"TELEGRAPH'S" NEW FILM SERIAL

"Lloyd's of London" is a film which is shortly to be presented at the Queen's Theatre. To-day appears another instalment of the full story of the episodes in the life of the great corporation on which the film is based. It is a narrative of much interest in itself and is appropriately made public at a time when the presentation of the film in Hongkong is soon to be made.

Jonathan Blake, boyhood friend of Admiral Lord Noison and of Lloyds of London, insurers, in the syndicate headed by John Angerstein, went to Franco in the troubled years under Napoleon to spy out information for Lloyds. Fearing allscovery, he plans to flee when he witnesses the arrest of a beautiful English woman. He aids her to escape the military police, and the two set out for England in a small sloop; Neither Jonathan nor the woman knows the identity of the other.

Chapter Ten

The little sloop was more than half way across the English changed and the white chalk cliffs of Dover were plainty visible when the girl awakened. She sat up and gazed aft at Jonathan, blue with a gazed aft at Jonathan, blue with a gazed aft at Jonathan, blue with a chest she found amidships. She produced a loaf of bread, a small produced a loaf of bread, a small choese, a bottle of red wine and a bottle of brandy; she filled a glass with the brandy, came aft and handed it to Jonathan. She then returned to the chest and ate breakfast, after wich so came afth again "Show me how to steer, Jonathan," she suggested softly. "I'm sure I can manage while you par-take of some food and snatch a few hours sleep. Poor man, you have had a hard night." He instructed her how to steer by the compass in the binnacle; then he, too, atc. "Call me if the weather changes, Elizabeth, please," he warned her. He had about two hours of sloop and relieved her at the tiller, in response to her call. A tall, seventy four gun British man-o-waraman, with every nail set, was bearing down upon them, and Elizabeth had become alarmed as to the danger of a collision, Jonathan luffed the nloop up into the wind and she lost headway and lay with her sails shivering as the man-o-warsman off the sloop's bow. She was glorioue. Walking backward and forward on her poop was a slight man came to the rail and looked down at the sloop; he waved a greeting to them. "There," said Elizabeth, faintly excited, "is the youngest admiral in our navy. I have heard his superiors say that he is destined to a glorious career. His name is Horatio Nelson."

Jonathan stared after the ship,] but her tall stern-castle had blotted out the slight figure on the poop. we were thirteen years old," he told him since. We correspond fro-quently, however. Horatio is a tire-less letter-writer and much interested in some work that I am doing, which, in a small way, is of aid and benefit to our country.

"You are a professional man, Jonathan?" "I am connected with Lloyd's of London. I am the inventor of and the head of their intelligence or rather their communication system. Horatlo called at Lloyd's once years then proceed to London." many, Later I went aboard his ship at Plymouth, but the vessel had just been de-commissioned and Horatio had been retired temporarily and was visiting his people at Burn-ham-Thorpe." And he went on to relate to her the details of the boyish pact that had existed between him and Horatio Nelson. "He often refers to it jestingly in his letters;
